

“Because I Love You” Poem

Written by Jane Kelly
January 10, 2000

There is a parent group to help you get through,
Parents who have lived crisis in Because I Love You,
No one will judge you or tell you right from wrong,
They have experience to share so come along.

Does your child lie, cheat or steal?
Someone will share their story on how to deal.
How they coped, what works, good or bad,
And many parents have succeeded and they are glad.

What can you do when everything seems to fail?
Come talk to parents whose children are in jail.
We learn to let go, let them learn on their own,
And we pray they learn these lessons before they are grown.

Some children are sent to rehab, to give up drugs,
Come visit us we will give you support and hugs.
You are not alone, join a Because I Love You team,
And success will become a reality and not just a dream!!!

